

Massimo Giaconia is an accountant at the Order of Chartered Accountants of Milan. He boasts extensive experience in the field of corporate reorganisations, transfer pricing, Italian and foreign tax planning, in various sectors such as the pharmaceutical industry, information technology, energy, industrial products and consumer goods, in Italy, Europe and the USA. He holds numerous corporate positions in important groups, including listed ones.

Following his degree in Business Economics and his Doctorate in "International Economic Law", both obtained at the "Luigi Bocconi" University of Milan, he carried out various collaborations with primary tax firms. Most recently he held the position of Counsel at the law and tax firm Gatti Pavesi Bianchi Ludovici. Previously he was a partner in the Tax department of Baker McKenzie Italia, of which he was coordinator from 2005 to 2020 and first collaborated as Tax Partner in Italy and in New York, as head of the Italian Tax Desk of Ernst & Young, of which he was appointed Managing Partner of the tax sector and President from 2002 to 2005.

He is a speaker, teacher and author of numerous publications on tax matters in Italian and foreign magazines, as well as a member of various professional trade associations.